Arab Oil Embargo Will Continue

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Saudi Arabia and Kuwait have given President Hafez Assad of Syria "firm pledges" to continue the oil embargo against the United States, Beirut newspapers reported today.

The reports said King Faisal of Saudi Arabia and Kuwait's ruler, Sheik Sabah al Salem al Sabah, assured Assad that the embargo will be maintained until an agreement to disengage Syrian and Israeli forces on the Golan Heights is worked out on Syrian terms.

Both the pro-Egyptian paper Al Anwar and the independent Al Bayrak carried the reports.

Assad met for five hours Saturday with Faisal, the leader of the Arab oil embargo, in Riyadh, the Saudi capital. He flew to Kuwait Sunday and was expected back in Damascus, the Syrian capital, today.

Syria's foreign minister, Abdel Halim Khaddam, laid down terms Sunday for a disengagement agreement that Israel is certain to reject.

Khaddam in a statement to the Saudi press and government radio said: "Syria will accept military disengagement on the Golan Heights front only if it's made a part of a plan for a total Israeli withdrawal from Arab territories conquered both in the 1973 and 1967 wars.

Israeli leaders have repeatedly made clear that Israel is going to retain permanently some of the territory taken in 1967 because they feel it is necessary to Israel's security. And one piece of territory they are most adamant about holding is the Golan Heights from which Syrian batteries shelled Israeli settlements in northern Galilee until the Israelis captured them.

Al Anwar's Riyadh correspondent said Faisal assured Assad that Saudi Arabia "will continue to support Syria whether by the presence of Saudi troops on the Syrian front or through the continuation of the oil embargo against the United States."

Officials Claim Wheat Adequate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration farm officials are expected to assure a Senate panel that the United States will not run out of wheat before a record new harvest begins in a few months.

Agriculture Department officials and representatives of the flour-milling and baking industries were called to testify today before a subcommittee headed by Sen. Walter D. Huddleston, D-Ky.

Huddleston said the one-day hearing was scheduled to examine what he described as "conflicting statements and projects" about the U.S. wheat supply situation.

Record exports, triggered by huge sales to the Soviet Union in mid-1972, have drained U.S. wheat reserves.

Although the reserves are at a near-record low, USDA officials say there will be enough until new wheat begins to be harvested in late May and June in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

The department estimates the stockpile will be 178 million bushels on July 1, down from 438 million bushels last summer and 863 million bushels on July 1, 1972, about the time Russia was buying about one-fourth of that year's U.S. crop.

As a result of the tight supply, wheat prices have climbed to records almost every month as orders continue from many countries, including the People's Republic of China and the Soviet Union.

The department reported last week that, by mid-January, the farm price of wheat nationally had reached $5.29 per bushel, nearly five times what it was when Russia began buying grain 18 months earlier.

Farmers harvested a record 1.7 billion bushels of wheat in 1973, and department experts say the crop this year will be 2.06 billion bushels. They say the new crop will be enough to meet domestic and export needs in 1974-75.

According to department calculations, wheat exports in the year ending June 30 will total 1.2 billion bushels, up 16 million from the 1972-73 high when Russia bought so much.

But listings by exporters filed weekly with the department add up to almost 1.35 billion bushels. Some department officials have said the total is not accurate since it may include wheat that actually may not be shipped this season.

However, if the gross figure proves correct, it means wheat exports by June 30 will be 148 million bushels more than USDA currently estimates. It also would mean the reserve would be only 30 million bushels at that time.

Ten days ago, President Nixon suspended import quotas on wheat and flour until June 30 in case U.S. flour millers and bakers want to import products from Canada and other sources to tide them over until summer.

Also, the government has been meeting with Soviet officials to see if they might delay taking some wheat deliveries until after July 1, when the new crop is ready. Russia already has agreed to defer deliveries on 18.4 million bushels.

The strike by independent truckers idled an estimated 20,000 workers in affected industries today as it began crippling deliveries of meat and produce in some areas.

New violence was reported.

Officials in 15 states reported shootings, rock throwing or tire and hose slashings over the weekend.

Two drivers suffered shoulder wounds from bullets which struck their trucks near New Buffalo, Mich., and Louisville, Ky., Sunday night. A Pennsylvania official said there had been 14 shootings at trucks and up to 100 other violent incidents since last Wednesday. One trucker died in violence related to the shutdown last Thursday.

About 3,400 National Guardsmen stood watch today on Ohio and Pennsylvania highways. Federal and state officials recessed a Washington meeting early today without settling the growing shutdown that has touched at least 30 states. Thousands of trucks are not operating, hundreds of truck stop stations-cafes have closed since Thursday.

Federal energy chief William E. Simon, Gov. Milton J. Shapp of Pennsylvania, representatives of five other states and spokesmen for some independent drivers participated in the Washington meetings that were to resume today after two unsuccessful sessions Sunday.

Simon said that he opposed, but did not rule out, a rollback in diesel fuel prices. A rollback is a key demand by the strikers. They say diesel fuel has gone from 33 cents to 47 cents a gallon in eight months.

Shapp proposed a 45-day moratorium on the truckers' shutdown to avert "pending economic disaster."

But spokesmen for the striking independents, and drivers interviewed in several states, said they weren't rolling again until diesel fuel prices are cut back, freight rates are raised and until they are allowed to pass along higher fuel costs.

By Sunday night, the shutdown was having some affect in 30 states from Connecticut to Florida, across the South and Midwest and along the southwest border of the country from Texas to California.

Governors officially deplored the continuing violence. Atty Gen. William B. Saxbe said in Mechanicsburg, Ohio, that "this handful of truckers is not going to bring this country to its knees."

Pennsylvania activated 2,500 National Guardsmen to relieve 1,400 others who had been watching highways since Friday. Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan ordered 900 Guardsmen into similar duty.

One immediate concern was food. An estimated 20 meatpacking plants in Iowa, Michigan, Oklahoma, Texas and Pennsylvania were closed or cutting back operations, idling at least 8,000 workers.

While the layoffs at the countless truck stops could not be calculated,

Nixon To Exceed $304.4 Billion Budget If Needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today laid out his record $304.4-billion budget for fiscal 1975 but promptly pledged to exceed it if the energy crisis throws too many Americans out of work.

Unlike his hard-nosed budget of a year ago in which dozens of programs were targets for extinction or cutback, Nixon fastened his attention on the danger of a recession induced by the fuel shortage.

"The President will not tolerate a recession," Deputy Budget Director Frederic Malek told reporters. "If it means busting the budget, he will bust the budget to keep people from losing their jobs."

The budget arithmetic, already disclosed last week, shows a deficit of $9.4 billion, about double the deficit for the current financial year. It shows an all-time high defense budget of $85.8 billion, and an over-all spending increase of $29.8 billion over the last budget.

For the first time in history, federal spending for income security for needy Americans — primarily Social Security, public assistance and health aid — tops $100 billion, a jump of about $15 billion over fiscal 1974.

Nixon proposed no new taxes, except for the windfall-profits levy he offered in December to keep the oil companies from profiteering on the energy crisis. It would bring in $3 billion.

As he has announced before, Nixon proposed $1.5 billion for energy research to find new sources of fuel for Americans; new funds for mass-transit systems, wrapped in a special revenue-sharing program, and a large increase in aid to college students.

Nixon said his budget, which amounts to almost $1,500 for every man, woman and child in the nation, walks a tightrope of moderate economic restraint.

"In the face of economic uncertainty, my budget recommendations provide for a fiscal policy that would support high employment while restraining inflation," he said.

His budget officials left the door open for increasing spending or cutting taxes to create jobs lost through the energy crisis.

The standby spending program could include accelerated federal construction or procurement, public-service jobs in high jobless areas, or even higher Social Security benefits, Malek said.

Just as the budget was unveiled, the Housing and Urban Development Department disclosed plans to provide subsidies for tenants in 118,000 more public housing units, thus providing some stimulus to the depressed housing market.

Although the amount of new federal spending for additional subsidies in fiscal 1975 is small, budget officials said this was the first example of the type of moves Nixon will make to stimulate the economy if needed.

As much as $5 billion more in federal funds could be infused into the economy if needed to prevent a recession, Malek said.

Nixon's new spending program is greatly affected by inflation, some of it in higher fuel costs to the government.

Wage and price increases were the principal factor in a proposed $6.3-billion boost in the defense budget; increased health costs helped push up the spending for health by $3 billion; federal tax revenues increased largely because of inflation.

Of the $29.8 billion in increased spending, 90 per cent of it is in uncontrollable, largely higher Social Security and public assistance payments.

Nixon's defense budget tops the previous all-time record of $79.9 billion in 1945, when the dollar was worth a lot more.

"These increases are required to improve the readiness of our armed forces, to build up levels of essential equipment and supplies, and to meet today's higher costs of maintaining force levels," the President said.

The budget proposes $480 million in new money for military fuel costs.

Although no new ground was broken in the defense budget proposal, the administration urged development of established weapons systems such as the Trident nuclear submarine and the Air Force B1 strategic bomber.

Nixon said extra funds also are needed to improve combat readiness, modernize forces, and build up munitions "in accordance with lessons learned in the Middle East war."

But, he said, the costs of defense manpower are higher with his all-

Large General Motors, Westinghouse, and General Electric plants and steel mill operations in Ohio and Pennsylvania reported that if trucks did not roll soon, they would be ordering layoffs. Large Appalachian coal mines were reported in the same condition.

The Ohio National Guard sent helicopter patrols winging skyward today in northeastern Ohio to keep and eye on the trucker shutdown but planned little ground activity, a spokesman said.

Gov. John J. Gilligan called up about 900 men Sunday. They were ordered to assemble in their armories overnight and became active officially at 8 a.m., but a Guard spokesman said there would be little in the way of long lines of jeeps rolling out or large convoy escort.

Noting most of the sporadic violence associated with the trucker shutdown has come at night, the spokesman said highway and overpass patrols weren't expected until evening hours.

Meanwhile, George Rynn, president of the Akron-based Council of Independent Truckers and one of the leaders of the shutdown, in its 16th day in parts of Ohio, termed the Guard callup unnecessary, "a complete waste of the taxpayers' money" and "an imposition on the 900 men."

Nixon said his $1.5-billion spending proposal for energy research is part of a five-year, $10-billion program aimed at making the nation self-sufficient in energy. Most will go for developing a nuclear breeder reactor and for finding ways to convert coal into fuel that is less-polluting and more efficient.

The President left to future legislation any significant breakthroughs in social programs.

He said he would submit a national health insurance program to Congress and dust off his welfare reform plan and offer it complete with a new name and a new approach.

But neither of these major proposals will be enacted in time for inclusion in the fiscal 1975 budget. Nixon said national health insurance should not begin until fiscal 1977.

Other budget highlights:

FOREIGN AID — Spending for multilateral and bilateral assistance increases about $100 million to $1.7 billion. In addition, aid for postwar reconstruction in South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, rises $150 million to $648 million.

PAY RAISES — Members of Congress and top federal officials will receive 7.5 per cent pay raises in each of the next three calendar years. Cabinet officers and Supreme Court justices will get one-time 7.5 per cent pay raises in March 1975, foregoing a raise this year. Nixon will not ask for a raise for himself, Malek said.

JOBS — The administration proposed to spend $2.1 billion in manpower assistance, primarily in grants to localities to be used in increasing the skills of workers through training. Congress approved the legislation in December. In addition, Nixon said he is asking for $350 million to distribute to areas with high unemployment rates.

HIGHER EDUCATION — Nixon sought $1.7 billion for college student aid. The average needy student's grant would be almost doubled to $805 a year. These grants would be supplemented by about $250 million for college-work study assistance for an estimated 520,000 students. Another 330,000 students would receive $165 million in direct new loans, and about one million have been guaranteed student loans.

The teachers have been working without a contract for five months, and a common pleas court judge Friday banned picketing by the 135-member teachers' group.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Saudi Arabia and Kuwait have given President Hafez Assad of Syria "firm pledges" to continue the oil embargo against the United States, Beirut newspapers reported today.

Al Bayrak said Sheik Sabah of Kuwait pledged to Assad that the "oil war against the United States will continue until Syrian terms for disengagement are met."

Khaddam told newsmen in Kuwait today he had "no official word" that Kissinger plans another visit to Syria soon.

The Los Angeles Times, quoting well-placed diplomatic sources in Beirut, reported today that Syria had asked Kissinger to return to help hammer out a disengagement agreement. The report said he accepted and would be in Damascus by the end of the week.

"We have no official word about such plans," Khaddam said.

Protest Effects Felt Here

The truckers protest is having some effect on industry in Circleville and the immediate area, but not a serious one yet.

In a random sampling of local industry, Ralston Purina has had to make the most adjustments to cope with the protest. A spokesman at the plant today said the trucking patterns have been adjusted to stay away from those areas where the protest is most volatile and all shipping is being done during the daylight hours.

U.S.S. Chemicals Plastic Plant here reports it has had no effect on its operation yet. General Electric Lamp Plant also said the protest is not affecting the production schedule there. Circle Transport, a local trucking firm, said today they were making no long hauls but were confining their trips to short hauls. "We don't want anyone hurt in this thing said a spokesman for the firm.

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said today no incidences involving truckers had been reported to his office over the weekend. The Ohio Highway Patrol Post also reported no trucking was interfered with by protesters in the county.

Ohio Turnpike Has Record Take

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Despite truckers' blockades and fuel shortages, the Ohio Turnpike earned a record $38 million in tolls last year.

While fewer vehicles traveled the 241-mile road in late 1973 because of the energy crisis and related problems, the turnpike commission reported a record 24,143,274 cars and trucks used the tollway in 1973.

The commission warned, however, in its annual report that the worsening of the energy crisis could push back the 1980 target date for retiring the bonds on the 19-year-old road.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took a nose dive today in moderately active trading as concern over Arab oil and the economy brought on a wave of selling.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was down 20.33 at 823.61, little changed from a half hour earlier, while declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by more than 5 to 2.

Investor attention is no longer focused on the Mideast negotiations but has been diverted to "the potential for a recession and continuing inflationary pressures," said Monte Gordon, analyst with Dreyfus Corp. "The market is also increasingly concerned with the obvious impact of the energy crisis on unemployment."

Arab intransigence with respect to oil shipments, the truckers' strike and continuing uncertainties over Wagergate also were factors in the market selloff, brokers said.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index at noon was down .82 at 95.87, while the NYSE composite index was off .95 at 50.05.

Ohio Civil Rights Commission Notes Work Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Civil Rights Commission handled a record number of cases in the 1972-73 fiscal year and will probably handle more complaints this year.

In its annual report to Gov. John J. Gilligan, the commission declared legislation outlawing sex discrimination, if passed, could require an increase in the commission staff.

Courses designed to explain the new law to "an entire new constituency of women who had never had recourse to the Civil Rights Commission" are also needed this year, according to the commission.

Some 2,490 new charges of unlawful discrimination were received by the commission in 1972-73. That figure represents a 50 per cent increase over the previous year. Since 1,934 cases were already on file, the commission said the actual caseload reached 4,425 charges.

Dear Friends,

It is well to pause sometimes and think how one will feel when a loved one is no longer among us. It may cause us to realize the little acts of kindness and attention we should be giving now — rather than to suffer remorse for neglect of a loved one after he has departed this world.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took a nose dive today in moderately active trading as concern over Arab oil and the economy brought on a wave of selling.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was down 20.33 at 823.61, little changed from a half hour earlier, while declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by more than 5 to 2.

Investor attention is no longer focused on the Mideast negotiations but has been diverted to "the potential for a recession and continuing inflationary pressures," said Monte Gordon, analyst with Dreyfus Corp. "The market is also increasingly concerned with the obvious impact of the energy crisis on unemployment."

Arab intransigence with respect to oil shipments, the truckers' strike and continuing uncertainties over Wagergate also were factors in the market selloff, brokers said.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index at noon was down .82 at 95.87, while the NYSE composite index was off .95 at 50.05.

GE Introduces New Fluorescent Lamp

To help solve the energy squeeze, General Electric Company's Lamp Business Division recently announced the immediate availability of an 8-foot ENERGESAVER cool white Slimline lamp.

The new ENERGESAVER lamp is being made by the GE Circleville Lamp Plant, according to Ed Grigg, plant manager. Mr. Grigg added that, "This is the first fluorescent lamp designed specifically to operate at reduced wattage on existing ballasts and will be available for the duration of the energy crisis. It offers users an opportunity to cut lighting energy consumption by 20 per cent when the lamps are installed in existing indoor fluorescent lighting systems using Slimline lamps.

"The ENERGESAVER lamps are to be interchangeable with standard Slimline lamps in indoor lighting systems, and will operate on conventional CBM ballasts, reducing power consumption by about 35 watts in a two-lamp fixture or about 70 watts in a four lamp fixture. Relamping with the lower wattage ENERGESAVER lamps can result in a 20 per cent reduction in lighting energy needs while reducing the lighting level only 18 per cent compared to that obtained by relamping the same fixtures with standard Slimlines.

"Typical applications include offices and schools where lighting uniformity is desirable for performance, stores where the absence of general lighting could detract from the attractiveness and appeal of an area, and industrial locations where good illumination for production and safety are needed.

"For example, in a typical store lighting system that has 2,000 Slimline lamps, installation of ENERGESAVER Slimlines can cut power needs by 35 KW. In a typical 10 hr. business day the energy savings could reach 350 KWH. On the basis of a two-lamp Slimline fixture, the small additional list price of 15 cents for each ENERGESAVER lamp offers the opportunity to reduce operating costs more than $15 per two-lamp fixture over the life of the lamp. (This is based on 18,000 burning hours at a typical commercial energy rate of $0.025 per KWH.) In the 2,000 lamp installation described, the total savings could exceed $15,000 and 630,000 KWH.

"The ENERGESAVER lamp resulted from advancements in fill gas technology. It is listed at the same average life ratings as a standard Slimline Lamp — 18,000 hours when operated for 12 hours per start and 12,000 hours when operated for 3 hours per start."

The new ENERGESAVER lamp is the only GE fluorescent lamp to feature a red label for quick identification and selection. Its ordering code F96T12-CW-ES reflects its energy saving potential. Its list price of $2.79 is 15 cents more than the $2.64 list price of the standard Slimline lamp.

The addition of deluxe cool white, warm white, and daylight lamps will extend the energy-saving benefits of the ENERGESAVER Slimline to even more applications.

A Page Of Opinion

Problem Of Senility

An Oxford University physician sees a dreadful picture of mankind in the future.

If medical research and practice continue along present paths, he says some day the surface of the earth will be completely filled with human beings, of whom more and more will be senile.

While medics are discovering more ways to prolong life, including transplanting organs from one person to another, he said, there is little possibility that the human mind can ever be transplanted.

What good is a body that can go on living indefinitely, if it becomes controlled by a senile mind? Life under such circumstances would be meaningless for the individual, and an unrewarding burden to those who would have to care for the vegetating oldsters.

The doctor may be unduly pessimistic. There are indications that senility is not an inevitable part of aging, but results from physical factors. Perhaps some day doctors will know how to keep the mind functioning well, no matter how long a person lives.

'If' Perfectly Clear

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—People. . .Places. . . In the still of the night, the President must contemplate how his life and that of the nation changed because of preposterously small slip-ups. A chain reaction of submicroscopic blunders and gaffes mushroomed into a cataclysm that has no parallel in American political history. His nights must be filled with that grinding little word—if.

If the clumsy plumbers had not fouled up the placing of a simple tap on Larry O'Brien's phone, during the Memorial Day weekend of 1972, they would not have been ordered to return three weeks later.

If, during that disastrous second trip, they had sensed potential danger in the fact that the night watchman in the Watergate had discovered that somebody had compromised a snap-lock by placing adhesive tape over its prong, the expedition might have been abandoned.

If the plumber in charge of the walkie-talkie had not turned it off "to save the batteries" he would have heard the lookout plumber in the hotel across the street warn them that a cop car was headed their way.

If Ehrlichman and Haldeman had not snickered in a patronizing way as they emerged from the Oval Office and passed John Dean—who felt they were sharing some "in" joke about him—maybe Dean would not have blown the whistle before the Senate committee.

If Bud Krogh had not misinterpreted his orders and busted into Dr. Fielding's office, that disaster would never have occurred.

If Nixon hadn't agreed to bug his offices, he would not be snarled in miles of tape.

If Alexander Butterfield, who set up the tape system, had not inadvertently mentioned its existence, during a routine interview with one of Sam Ervin's aids, he wouldn't now be haunted by erasures.

If somebody hadn't talked Nixon into appointing Kennedy-man Archibald Cox, nobody outside a Harvard classroom would have heard of him. If. . .

The Russians can build anything we can build, from space stations to electric toothbrushes. Their trouble over the years is that almost everything turns out ugly. One of the marvels of this age of sophisticated technology is that we—not they—came up with the Edsel.

Now that's all going to be changed. Raymond Loewy, our leading industrial designer, has signed a long-term contract to pretty-up Russian-made products to make them more appealing to potential customers through the world.

A note from Loewy reads:

"This is the first USSR experiment of international cooperation in the scientific and design technological areas. The contract calls for our firm (Loewy-Snaith) to design major consumer products such as passenger automobiles, tractors, motorcycles, cameras, refrigerators, a high-speed hydrofoil vessel, etc.

"Our contribution to Skylab, as habitability consultants to NASA, was a factor in the Russians' decision: reliability in space is a vital requirement. Also, my record as a car designer—automotive critics seem to insist that I 'influenced the industry'—was taken into consideration. The Russians remembered the postwar Studebaker Avant.

"Incidentally, the Russians knew from the start that we are not Communists. As professionals, our relationship was excellent. We were never subject to political propaganda."

Loewy's stunning wife, Viola, accompanied him during his Moscow meetings with officials of Licensintorg and the All Union Research Institute. She took an active role in all negotiations. Like her husband, Viola subscribes to the theory that "it is

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — When it comes to an afterlife, people fall into three classes: those who are sure they're going to have one, those who hope they will — and those who don't particularly want one.

Put me in the third group. I am not angry with life. I love and admire it, because I have enjoyed my own greatly, while taking the scars as they come. But the idea of going through life again appeals rather than appeals to me.

Living a life is kind of like fighting a grizzly bear. Having gone the route once, more or less successfully, why would a guy want to do it again? What could he possibly prove?

It might be different if a second life came with a written guarantee that it would be mystically grander and magically better than your first life — and any workable parts that wore out in the first 100 years would be replaced free. But heaven has not been known to hand out such bargains.

There are many specific reasons why a second life is hardly worth sighing for. First of all one would be bored with deja vu — the I've-been-through-all-this-before feeling. Its newness and surprises are what give a first life most of its flavor. A second life would be too much like licking the glue off the back of a handful of envelopes for Christmas cards. The taste is predictable.

Another argument against a second life is that it would force a man to go through certain patterns of occurrence he hardly survived the first time and might not be able or willing to weather again.

better to shake hands than shake fists."

The N.Y. Time's "corrections" editor has done it again. He writes the most provocative material printed in that good gray eminence. Here are two, hot off the griddle:

"In an article on Monday, the Levy Shea yoga parlor was incorrectly identified as being on the West Side. The correct address is 100 East 16th Street."

So get on your heads, men, and bounce right over there.

Item No.2:

"In a Jan. 22 article on the effects of alcohol consumption in experiments involving baboons, the Times attributed the findings to researchers at Mt. Sinai Hospital. The work was done jointly by the Mt. Sinai School of Medicine and the Veterans Administration in the Bronx."

And the happy baboons, it should be added.

Is there any special diet that can cure hiatus hernia?

Miss O. F., Minn.

Dear Miss F.:

There is no diet that can cure or alter a hiatus hernia because this condition is an anatomical one that cannot be changed once it is established. There is, however, a pattern of eating that can make such victims more comfortable after meals.

A hiatus hernia, also known as a diaphragmatic hernia, is a weakening and bulging of the wall of the esophagus, the tube through which food passes from the mouth into the stomach. The weakened site occurs at the point where the esophagus passes through the normal hole in the diaphragm to join up with the stomach.

The condition exists in many middle-aged people who are overweight. The most significant suggestion is to avoid overloading the stomach at mealtimes. Instead, smaller quantities of food at more frequent intervals will prevent distressing sensations of fullness and bloating.

Fried, fatty foods should be avoided. Liquor, especially wine, should be taken in extreme moderation. Concentration on a weight-reducing program is beneficial. Sleeping with the head elevated is not only comforting but strongly advisable.

Antacids within 20 or 30 minutes after eating are recommended to prevent heartburn.

Not all cases of hiatus hernia are alike. Some remain uncomplicated. Others may need special attention.

Only in rare cases is surgery recommended; it is always considered risky. Such an approach depends entirely on the severity and the complications that may exist.

LAURO.—The only race tension in Trinidad occurs when the people watch the horses run. They have something worse—a class society and a dictator. The boss is Prime Minister Eric Williams, who earned a doctorate in philosophy at Oxford University, helped the islands of Trinidad and Tobago win independence from Great Britain, and strangled all opposition parties.

The class society falls into three groups: Ordinary, Second Class, and First Class. They do not mix. An "Ordinary" man may have a son who studies law. If, in time, the boy becomes a First Class citizen, he will usually ignore his parents in public and beg them not to greet him.

Trinidad emerges from the bottom of the Caribbean like a green cork. It is so close to the coast of Venezuela that it affords but two channels into the capital, Port-of-Spain. One is called the Dragon's Mouth; the other, the Serpent's Mouth.

The lush tropical countryside, the sheer mountains, the home of the calypso are interesting. But the people are entrancing. I do not know of any other small place where there are 375,000 Hindus; 50,000 Chinese; 433,000 blacks; 160,000 Creoles; 10,000 refugee Jews; 19,000 Englishmen and 1,700 Syrians.

The Chinese dominate. The rich ones who own the cocoa plantations are "First Class" citizens. The prime minister, whose ancestry is part Hindu and part black, seems not to relate independence and liberty with equality. He does not interfere with the rigid caste system. Dr. Williams is, of course, "First Class."

In World War II, the United States Navy had a base at Maracas Bay with a deep-water anchorage shielded by mountains. American Seabees in battalions built an impossible road from Port-of-Spain through the jungle passes to the base.

The Williams government tossed the Navy out. My wife and I sat on the deserted beach and wondered why a poor government would toss a big spending payroll from the harbor.

American blacks, as tourists, cannot understand why the Trinidadians do not regard Dr. Martin Luther King as a hero. The natives shrug him off as a man who lost control of his mission.

In retaliation, U.S. Negroes accuse the people of Trinidad of "playing Whitey's game." Ormonde Springer, who admits to being "fifty-four and change" smiles modestly.

"Yes," he says, "we played the white man's game. He governed the island. The union Jack flew high here. We took the island from him, and now, for good or evil, our island is a nation. We run it. I am a Third Class Ordinary—but my son could become prime minister."

On Tobago at Easter, the people stage goat and crab races. At Trinidad, the big sport is cricket. There is a sagging stadium in the middle of Port-of-Spain. The spectators are so loud that the park is called "the lungs of the city."

Almost everywhere in the world, increased education of the young has created a chasm between children and parents. Teenagers laugh at the Trinidadian philosophy of "Discipline, Tolerance and Production." They demand to know why Trinidad supports an ambassador to Egypt when there aren't a dozen citizens living there.

Fresh fish from the Caribbean is abundant, but the people tire of it. On Sunday, they eat meat—beef, chicken and pork — all at one meal. The religious side of life is strong and, despite the presence of powerful Hindus and Chinese, the Roman Catholic Church is the "boss" of the soul.

The calypso, which originated in Trinidad, is as common as rum. The youth stage a bacchanal from January until the beginning of Lent. Conga lines snake the streets. They sing: "We dance. We drink. We fall down. We don't care." The parents, who are said to be "on a diet," spend the same time praying for their children.

From the little I have seen and heard, this island, which is only 10.3 degrees north of the equator, is neither a nice place to visit nor to live. It is considered bad form to address a Third Class citizen as "Mister." If he is bold, he will tell you that he is not a mister.

True freedom and equality is attained only by the packs of dogs which trot through the streets. They are everywhere and they have no caste system. The long panting tongues and the prominent ribs show that they are also free to starve . . .

A Page Of Opinion

Problem Of Senility

An Oxford University physician sees a dreadful picture of mankind in the future.

If medical research and practice continue along present paths, he says some day the surface of the earth will be completely filled with human beings, of whom more and more will be senile.

While medics are discovering more ways to prolong life, including transplanting organs from one person to another, he said, there is little possibility that the human mind can ever be transplanted.

What good is a body that can go on living indefinitely, if it becomes controlled by a senile mind? Life under such circumstances would be meaningless for the individual, and an unrewarding burden to those who would have to care for the vegetating oldsters.

The doctor may be unduly pessimistic. There are indications that senility is not an inevitable part of aging, but results from physical factors. Perhaps some day doctors will know how to keep the mind functioning well, no matter how long a person lives.

'If' Perfectly Clear

NEW YORK—People. . . Places. . . In the still of the night, the President must contemplate how his life and that of the nation changed because of preposterously small slip-ups. A chain reaction of submicroscopic blunders and gaffes mushroomed into a cataclysm that has no parallel in American political history. His nights must be filled with that grinding little word—if.

If the clumsy plumbers had not fouled up the placing of a simple tap on Larry O'Brien's phone, during the Memorial Day weekend of 1972, they would not have been ordered to return three weeks later.

If, during that disastrous second trip, they had sensed potential danger in the fact that the night watchman in the Watergate had discovered that somebody had compromised a snaphack by placing adhesive tape over its prong, the expedition might have been abandoned.

If the plumber in charge of the walkie-talkie had not turned it off "to save the batteries" he would have heard the lookout plumber in the hotel across the street warn them that a cop car was headed their way.

If Ehrlichman and Haldeman had not snickered in a patronizing way as they emerged from the Oval Office and passed John Dean—who felt they were sharing some "in" joke about him—maybe Dean would not have blown the whistle before the Senate committee.

If Bud Krogh had not misinterpreted his orders and busted into Dr. Fielding's office, that disaster would never have occurred.

If Nixon hadn't agreed to bug his offices, he would not be snarled in miles of tape.

If Alexander Butterfield, who set up the tape system, had not inadvertently mentioned its existence, during a routine interview with one of Sam Ervin's aids, he wouldn't now be haunted by erasures.

If somebody hadn't talked Nixon into appointing Kennedy-man Archibald Cox, nobody outside a Harvard classroom would have heard of him.

If . . .

The Russians can build anything we can build, from space stations to electric toothbrushes. Their trouble over the years is that almost everything turns out ugly. One of the marvels of this age of sophisticated technology is that we—not they—came up with the Edsel.

Now that's all going to be changed. Raymond Loewy, our leading industrial designer, has signed a long-term contract to pretty-up Russian-made products to make them more appealing to potential customers through the world.

A note from Loewy reads:

"This is the first USSR experiment of international cooperation in the scientific and design technological areas. The contract calls for our firm (Loewy-Smith) to design major consumer products such as passenger automobiles, tractors, motorcycles, cameras, refrigerators, a high-speed hydrofoil vessel, etc.

"Our contribution to Skylab, as habitability consultants to NASA, was a factor in the Russians' decision: reliability in space is a vital requirement. Also, my record as a car designer—automotive critics seem to insist that I 'influenced the industry'—was taken into consideration. The Russians remembered the postwar Studebaker Avant.

"Incidentally, the Russians knew from the start that we are not Communists. As professionals, our relationship was excellent. We were never subject to political propaganda."

Loewy's stunning wife, Viola, accompanied him during his Moscow meetings with officials of Licensintorg and the All Union Research Institute. She took an active role in all negotiations. Like her husband, Viola subscribes to the theory that "it is better to shake hands than shake fists."

The N.Y. Time's "corrections" editor has done it again. He writes the most provocative material printed in that good gray eminence. Here are two, hot off the griddle:

"In an article on Monday, the Levy Shea yoga parlor was incorrectly identified as being on the West Side. The correct address is 100 East 16th Street."

So get on your heads, men, and bounce right over there.

Item No.2:

"In a Jan. 22 article on the effects of alcohol consumption in experiments involving baboons, the Times attributed the findings to researchers at Mt. Sinai Hospital. The work was done jointly by the Mt. Sinai School of Medicine and the Veterans Administration in the Bronx."

And the happy baboons, it should be added.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — When it comes to an afterlife, people fall into three classes: those who are sure they're going to have one, those who hope they will — and those who don't particularly want one.

Put me in the third group. I am not angry with life. I love and admire it, because I have enjoyed my own greatly, while taking the scars as they come. But the idea of going through life again appalls rather than appeals to me.

Living a life is kind of like fighting a grizzly bear. Having gone the route once, more or less successfully, why would a guy want to do it again? What could he possibly prove?

It might be different if a second life came with a written guarantee that it would be mystically grander and magically better than your first life — and any workable parts that were out in the first 100 years would be replaced free. But heaven has not been known to hand out such bargains.

There are many specific reasons why a second life is hardly worth sighing for. First of all one would be bored with deja vu — the I've-been-through-all-this-before feeling. Its newness and surprises are what give a first life most of its flavor. A second life would be too much like licking the glue off the back of a handful of envelopes for Christmas cards. The taste is predictable.

Another argument against a second life is that it would force a man to go through certain patterns of occurrence he hardly survived the first time and might not be able or willing to weather again.

Who, for example, would wish to go again through the physical pangs or mental torment of:

Wearing dental braces.

The lonely agony of puppy love — at 6 or 60.

The brooding horrors of adolescence plus acne.

Paying off a home mortgage.

Trying to win the respect of teenagers.

The nuisance of growing old.

Filling out government tax and Social Security forms.

As a child, I can remember my father giving me an absentminded whack on the bottom now and then and saying, "Son, I wouldn't take a million dollars for you — and I wouldn't give a nickel for another just like you."

That's the way I feel about life. You can put up with one good one, bad as it is. But who really needs two?

Urge Elimination Of Rail Tracks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal officials say 2,500 of Ohio's 7,804 rail miles is excess and should be eliminated. That's 32 per cent of the mileage on record in 1972.

The mileage excess was calculated by the U. S. Department of Transportation and released Friday as part of a rail reorganization plan for the northeastern United States.

The federal agency has scheduled hearings in Columbus and other cities to consider the plan.

The Blue And Gold

This Week's Senior Speak Out On School Improvement

By TERESA OHOL and JANET STRUCKMAN

This week, the Blue and Gold asked some of the seniors what they felt the school needed and if they were satisfied with the way the school was run.

Jim Jenkins felt that a journalism class and a current events class would be popular with the students. He likes the idea of honor study halls, but he feels the method of selecting the students should be changed. He thinks the school should have a different program for selecting teachers. They teach here for a year or two and don't show any interest in the school or the activities. On graduation, he replied, "I am glad that I am graduating, but it seems like it came awfully quick."

Francie Everett would like to see open lunch periods where you could leave and come back at the end of the period. She feels that study halls are too strict and a student lounge would be a good thing for the students who don't want to study. She is looking forward to graduation and can't wait until then.

Randy Weaver feels there should be more courses that relate to what the average student would be doing later on in life. He thinks there should be more math courses for the average student instead of all the advanced math courses. He also feels that study halls are too strict and a student lounge would be beneficial to everyone.

In talking with Shelley Riegel we find she too, feels that a student lounge would do a great deal of good for the student body and the school in general. She said that the cafeteria could be cleaner and there should be a bigger variety of food from which to choose for lunch. She feels the graduation ceremonies are over-done, but she is glad she will be graduating soon.

Bob Hoover is completely satisfied with courses available, but he would like to have intramurals again. "They're good for the students," he said. He would like a student lounge and thinks in study halls, people who are studying should be separated from the ones who don't want to study.

Terry Althaus, as well as the others, would like to have a student lounge. He feels honor study halls are a waste of time because only a few are selected for them. He would like to see intramurals and a better baseball program. He can't wait for graduation. "It'll be the best thing that's happened to me," he says.

Jim Logsdon feels that the student council isn't taken seriously as well as some of the other organizations at the school. He also would like to have open lunch periods and a student lounge.

Pam Hannah feels that softball, tennis, and swimming are some sports needed at TV. She thinks that the student body would probably be interested in them. She feels that people really aren't interested in the clubs and most of the members just want their names and pictures in the paper. She is really looking forward to graduating after a long 12 years of school.

In talking with Rhonda Wilcoxon she, too, feels the clubs don't serve any real purpose. A lot of the students just goof off and ruin it for the ones who are really interested. She would like to see a tennis program and more sports for girls. She thinks the students are pretty interested in the sports available now. A student lounge would be a big help, she says "It would solve many of the restroom problems." She thinks a business lab would be very beneficial for the students pursuing a business career after graduation.

Margret Moody thinks students should have more free time during study halls. She thinks the student lounge is a great idea, too. "Students deserve privacy as well as the teachers," she says. She thinks the seniors should have less restrictions on them and the underclassmen should have the same when they reach their senior year.

All students are united in thinking a student lounge is needed and if it isn't a reality by the end of our school year, we hope our fellow students enjoy it and know how hard we worked for it.

Shorthand Girls Stay Fit In More Ways Than One

By CHRIS HANSEN

What goes on behind closed blinds every day in Mrs. Welch's eighth period shorthand class? Exercises—what else?

Since the beginning of the second semester, the shorthand I girls start off their class with five to ten minutes of calisthenics such as deep knee bends, touchdowns, around-the-worlds and others.

This exercising period proves useful in many ways. First, it helps warm up the girls in the 68 degree (or lower) classrooms. Also, it gets the students' minds and fingers working faster—making it easier to take dictation.

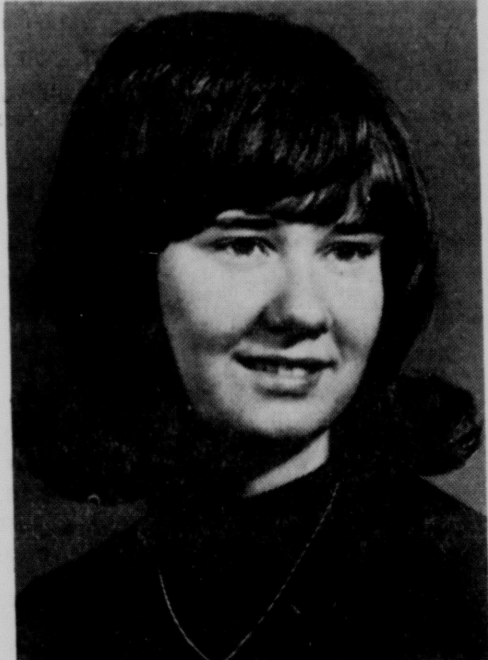

OSU Senior Does Student Teaching

Finally, these few minutes of exercises create a feeling of fun, good will and togetherness among the girls.

This idea has caught the attention of many others at Teays Valley, also. Yearbook pictures were taken of the class in action. Other classes across the courtyard stare in amazement at the jumping girls. Even the custodians bon into the back room occasionally for a look at what's going on, and sometimes they even join in.

Stephanie Mesner, a senior in this shorthand class, put it this way, "I really think it's a great idea. It keeps you in shape as well as being a lot of fun." Then too, Mrs. Welch has commented several times to her class that "... it helps work off my seventh period lunch!!!"

So if you're walking down corridor two during eighth period, don't be surprised if you hear a "... 1-2-3-4-2-3-4-3-2-3-4 ..." (plus a few giggles) coming from Room 22.

MISS KATHY WAUGH

By ROBERTA LALIK

Miss Kathy Waugh, a senior at Ohio State University is doing her student teaching in Home Economics with Mrs. Ruth Toole. Miss Waugh plans to student teach at Teays Valley for the next two months. After graduating from OSU, she plans to teach in Atlanta, Ga.

"Teays Valley was not my first choice, but I am greatly satisfied with it. The people are very nice. The double sessions do not upset my schedule either. I have always gotten up early. I like it because I can prepare for the next day in the early afternoon instead of late at night," said Miss Waugh.

When asked why she chose teaching as her career, she replied, "I have always wanted to be a teacher, but I did not know what I wanted to teach. Then I took Home Economics when I was a freshman in high school and liked it so I decided to teach it."

When asked how she liked the new mini-course at TV she replied, "The mini-courses are very helpful if a student does not wish to take sewing but does want to take foods. But in the regular course, a student must take it all. Mini-courses are designed to teach one course per semester, but the year long course makes you cram six subjects, in which some of the students are not interested, into nine months," said Miss Waugh.

The Teays Valley High School Student Council met on Jan. 23, at 1:15. The concession stand is in its first week of operation and is working out quite successfully for all concerned. The council has estimated a weekly profit of approximately $5 to $10 from goods sold there.

Final preparations for the Homecoming ceremonies were made. The ceremony took place Jan. 25 at the home game with Marysville during the reserve game halftime. Crowns for the homecoming queens each year are donated by the Key Club. A rehearsal date was also set for the exercises.

Easter Program preparations are now in full swing. Invitations are being extended to possible participants. They will be announced at a later date.

The Student of the Month committee met last week and set up basic standards required for each student in order to be selected. These requirements include such qualities as good attendance, attentiveness in class, and a good class and working attitude.

Problems of school destruction (mostly in the restrooms) were discussed and suggestions were taken on how to curb this demolition of school property.

Pennants purchased for the school gymnasium were shown to the council and it was suggested that the council buy one or two of these pennants to place in the school. Cost of each pennant was $11.50. Other clubs are also contributing to this project.

Copies of the Student Council constitution have been run off and are to be passed out to the student body at an upcoming homeroom session along with the opinion poll. This would give students a better idea of what the student council does and how it works. Also, the council wishes to invite the faculty and the student body to attend the student council meetings whenever they please.

Last week, President Karl Snyder sent a letter to the Circleville Student Council suggesting that maybe there could be some way of improving relations between Teays Valley and Circleville high schools. As of yet, no reply has been made.

Does anyone really know who the Student Council members are? Well, if you don't you soon will. Since the council members didn't want to wear badges proclaiming that they were on the student council, a list of their names is to be placed on the last page of the opinion poll in case any students

Drama Club Prepares 'Dracula' Production

By RUSTY WILLIAMS

The Teays Valley Drama Club will present the play "Dracula" on Feb. 22-23 at the high school auditorium.

This year's production will be a little later than in previous years because of some recent changes made by the new teacher-director, Charles Kearns.

The student actors feel these changes are for the better. Suzi Ervin commented, "Kearns expects perfection, so that makes us try harder, and it all makes for a better play. He also drills us on reading the lines until they sound just like the true character would say them. The memorization of the lines is time-consuming, but it is very important to the play. The changes he has made are all for the good of this play and others."

Steve Gregory told of some of the changes, "You must become the character." Steve said this takes much practice and study. He also emphasized the importance of studying the character and his background. "You must live as the character would, have the same moods, talk, and act as the character would."

Other changes taking place included concentration exercises which help the actor keep his mind on his lines and part. Tammy Sayre told of his change, "The mind exercises help you to gain self-confidence. This helps in memorizing your lines and having them memorized on time. It really helped me."

After the actors were assigned their parts, they began to memorize their lines. Then came the many rehearsals where they read their lines and went over movements and interaction with other cast members.

Actors are not the only part to play. There are also directors, lighting, make-up, stage and sound crews. Each is working to make this the best play in Teays Valley High School history.

TV Students And Faculty Talk About Viking Team

By ALAN FIELDS And TERESA OHOL

We have talked with the student body and some members of the faculty about this year's varsity basketball team. Some say we have a fair but most think we have a great team!

The team feels that they don't get enough support at the away games, so the Student Council has thought of an idea to take the drag out of driving and save gas, too. They suggested that buses should be waiting at the school to take the students to and from the away games. This way, more people could go to these games and the team would receive the support they need. Here are the comments we received:

Terry Lambert, Jeff Anderson, and Terry Collins—"The whole team feels that we are not getting enough support. Many of the students told us they don't have time to go to away games or they are too far away. This year we have a chance to win the state and the way the turn-outs are at away games, the people think we have won only one or two games when really we are undefeated at 13-0."

Mr. Forsythe—"They seem to be winners."

Janis Hoff—"We'll be No. 1 because there's no competition when you have such a good team."

Carol Waites—"It's alright."

Vicki Clifton—"They're the best team we've ever had."

Deb Havens—"They're terrific!"

Mrs. Roush—"I'd like to seem them in St. John's."

Snake—"No. 1 all the way!"

Kenny Lyon—"Heck of a lot better than last year."

Mr. Kidwell—"The team has tremendous potential. At tournament time, I hope they play up to it."

should want to talk to them.

School grading policies, their merits and demerits, were discussed. It was suggested that Mr. Everett, the council advisor, bring up this topic at the next staff meeting.

Anyone interested in buying any of the remaining Viking jewelry should contact Brad Sherman, Bill Toole, Jeff Voss, or Allen Adkinson in the near future. Do it now ... before they run out!!!

The Blue And Gold

This Week's Senior Speak Out On School Improvement

By TERESA OHOL and JANET STRUCKMAN

This week, the Blue and Gold asked some of the seniors what they felt the school needed and if they were satisfied with the way the school was run.

Jim Jenkins felt that a journalism class and a current events class would be popular with the students. He likes the idea of honor study halls, but he feels the method of selecting the students should be changed. He thinks the school should have a different program for selecting teachers. They teach here for a year or two and don't show any interest in the school or the activities. On graduation, he replied, "I am glad that I am graduating, but it seems like it came awfully quick."

Francie Everett would like to see open lunch periods where you could leave and come back at the end of the period. She feels that study halls are too strict and a student lounge would be a good thing for the students who don't want to study. She is looking forward to graduation and can't wait until then.

Randy Weaver feels there should be more courses that relate to what the average student would be doing later on in life. He thinks there should be more math courses for the average student instead of all the advanced math courses. He also feels that study halls are too strict and a student lounge would be beneficial to everyone.

In talking with Shelley Riegel we find she too, feels that a student lounge would do a great deal of good for the student body and the school in general. She said that the cafeteria could be cleaner and there should be a bigger variety of food from which to choose for lunch. She feels the graduation ceremonies are over-done, but she is glad she will be graduating soon.

Bob Hoover is completely satisfied with courses available, but he would like to have intramurals again. "They're good for the students," he said. He would like a student lounge and thinks in study halls, people who are studying should be separated from the ones who don't want to study.

Terry Althaus, as well as the others, would like to have a student lounge. He feels honor study halls are a waste of time because only a few are selected for them. He would like to see intramurals and a better baseball program. He can't wait for graduation. "It'll be the best thing that's happened to me," he says.

Jim Logsdon feels that the student council isn't taken seriously as well as some of the other organizations at the school. He also would like to have open lunch periods and a student lounge.

Pam Hannah feels that softball, tennis, and swimming are some sports needed at TV. She thinks that the student body would probably be interested in them. She feels that people really aren't interested in the clubs and most of the members just want their names and pictures in the paper. She is really looking forward to graduating after a long 12 years of school.

In talking with Rhonda Wilcoxon she, too, feels the clubs don't serve any real purpose. A lot of the students just goof off and ruin it for the ones who are really interested. She would like to see a tennis program and more sports for girls. She thinks the students are pretty interested in the sports available now. A student lounge would be a big help, she says. "It would solve many of the restroom problems." She thinks a business lab would be very beneficial for the students pursuing a business career after graduation.

Margret Moody thinks students should have more free time during study halls. She thinks the student lounge is a great idea, too. "Students deserve privacy as well as the teachers," she says. She thinks the seniors should have less restrictions on them and the underclassmen should have the same when they reach their senior year.

All students are united in thinking a student lounge is needed and if it isn't a reality by the end of our school year, we hope our fellow students enjoy it and know how hard we worked for it.

Finally, these few minutes of exercises create a feeling of fun, good will and togetherness among the girls.

This idea has caught the attention of many others at Teays Valley, also. Yearbook pictures were taken of the class in action. Other classes across the courtyard stare in amazement at the jumping girls. Even the custodians boop into the back room occasionally for a look at what's going on, and sometimes they even join in.

Stephanie Mesner, a senior in this shorthand class, put it this way, "I really think it's a great idea. It keeps you in shape as well as being a lot of fun." Then too, Mrs. Welch has commented several times to her class that "... it helps work off my seventh period lunch!!!"

So if you're walking down corridor two during eighth period, don't be surprised if you hear a "... 1-2-3-4-2-2-3-4-2-3-4 ..." (plus a few giggles) coming from Room 22.

Shorthand Girls Stay Fit In More Ways Than One

By CHRIS HANSEN

What goes on behind closed blinds every day in Mrs. Welch's eighth period shorthand class? Exercises—what else?

Since the beginning of the second semester, the shorthand I girls start off their class with five to ten minutes of calisthenics such as deep knee bends, touchdowns, around-the-worlds and others.

This exercising period proves useful in many ways. First, it helps warm up the girls in the 68 degree (or lower) classrooms. Also, it gets the students' minds and fingers working faster—making it easier to take dictation.

OSU Senior Does Student Teaching

MISS KATHY WAUGH

By ROBERTA LALIK

Miss Kathy Waugh, a senior at Ohio State University is doing her student teaching in Home Economics with Mrs. Ruth Toole. Miss Waugh plans to student teach at Teays Valley for the next two months. After graduating for OSU, she plans to teach in Atlanta, Ga.

"Teays Valley was not my first choice, but I am greatly satisfied with it. The people are very nice. The double sessions do not upset my schedule either. I have always gotten up early. I like it because I can prepare for the next day in the early afternoon instead of late at night," said Miss Waugh.

When asked why she chose teaching as her career, she replied, "I have always wanted to be a teacher, but I did not know what I wanted to teach. Then I took Home Economics when I was a freshman in high school and liked it so I decided to teach it."

When asked how she liked the new mini-course at TV she replied, "The mini-courses are very helpful if a student does not wish to take sewing but does want to take foods. But in the regular course, a student must take it all. Mini-courses are designed to teach one course per semester, but the year long course makes you cram six subjects, in which some of the students are not interested, into nine months," said Miss Waugh.

Council Estimates Profits

The Teays Valley High School Student Council met on Jan. 23, at 1:15. The concession stand is in its first week of operation and is working out quite successfully for all concerned. The council has estimated a weekly profit of approximately $5 to $10 from goods sold there.

Final preparations for the Homecoming ceremonies were made. The ceremony took place Jan. 25 at the home game with Marysville during the reserve game halftime. Crowns for the homecoming queens each year are donated by the Key Club. A rehearsal date was also set for the exercises.

SECTION 1: That the Director of Public Service of the City of Circleville, Ohio, by and with the approval and direction of the Board of Control of said City, is hereby authorized and directed to enter into a contract on behalf of said City with Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company, an Ohio corporation, for the lighting of the streets, alleys, lanes and public places in said City at the rates and upon the terms and conditions specified in the form of contract included herein. Said contract shall be substantially in the following form:

CONTRACT FOR STREET LIGHTING
IN CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO
Effective January 3, 1974

This Contract is made by and between Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company (the "Company"), and the City of Circleville, Ohio (the "City") pursuant to Ordinance No. 100-73 of the City.

SECTION 1: For a period beginning with the effective date hereof, and ending on May 16, 1978, the Company is hereby vested with the right to light with electricity the streets, alleys and other public places in the City and the Company shall have the right to charge and receive from the City payment for said services in accordance with the schedule of rates set forth below. All fixtures shall be mounted on wood poles, unless otherwise stated, and energized by overhead distribution facilities. The rates are based on all night burning every day of the year, or approximately 4000 hours per year.

Number 51: Size in Lumens, 50,000; Type-High Pressure Sodium, Glass Enclosed on Existing Steel Standards or Wood Poles; Rate Per Lamp Per Year, $15.00.

Size in Lumens, 50,000; Type-High Pressure Sodium, Glass Enclosed on New Wood Poles; Rate Per Lamp Per Year, $25.00.

SECTION 2: The amount of energy used by each lamp is calculated on the basis of all night burning every day of the year, or approximately 4000 hours per year (an average of 333.3 hours per month). In addition to the charges set forth in Section 1 above, the Company will, each month, apply the following fuel adjustment to the total average KWH per month for all the lamps billed during the period:

The energy charge applicable to all kilowatt-hours of energy consumed shall be increased or decreased .005¢ per KWH per each full one-half cent (.5¢) increase or decrease above or below twenty-three cents (23¢) in the average cost per million (1,000,000) BTU of fuel consumed at the Company's generating stations during the second calendar month preceding the billing date.

SECTION 3: Payment for the service furnished hereunder shall be made monthly, in accordance with bills rendered therefor by the Company at the end of each period, each payment to be due within 15 days of the submission of the bill therefor, overdue payments to bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum until paid. Should the City default in 4 successive payments, the Company may at any time discontinue the service hereunder without notice so long as any default exists; provided, however, that no charge shall be made by the Company for service hereunder during any period in which service is so discontinued. In the event of such default the Company upon written notice to the City may terminate this agreement.

SECTION 4: The Company agrees during the term hereof to install additional street lights of the type and size specified above, when authorized to do so by resolution of the Council. Provided, however, that the new street lights shall be located within 250 feet of a distribution circuit of the Company.

SECTION 5: The minimum number of street lights shall be not less than the sum of the total number specified above and whenever additional lights are installed, the minimum number of lights shall be increased accordingly.

SECTION 6: It is further agreed that the Company shall move street lights to new locations, or change the type of fixtures to another type specified above as requested by the Council by resolution; provided, however, that the actual cost to the Company in making such relocations, or changes in the fixtures, shall be paid for by the City.

SECTION 7: The Company shall make every effort to keep the street lighting system contracted for in operation during the time provided. If, for any reason, the Company fails to do so for more than an aggregate of four (4) hours in any one month, and upon written notice of such aggregate outage furnished to the Company by the City within ten (10) days of the end of such month, there shall be a pro rata reduction from the bill to cover such outages. No liability shall attach to the Company for any outage.

SECTION 8: The Company shall not be required to install additional street lights or maintain or replace lamps in the event that the City is in arrears in payment for services rendered, nor shall the Company be required to install more than fifteen (15) new street lights during the last year which this Ordinance is in effect.

SECTION 9: The Company at its own expense shall exercise reasonable diligence to insure that the lighting system is in good order and that all street lights are burning and shall make replacements as soon as possible following notification by the customer of the need for such service, but the Company shall not be required to perform any such replacement or maintenance except during regular working hours.

SECTION 10: The Company shall save the City harmless from any and all liability occasioned by the sole negligence of the Company in the construction, maintenance and operation of its street lighting system in the City.

SECTION 11: Title to all wire, poles, lamps and appurtenances used by the Company in furnishing the service contemplated in this Contract is and shall be in the Company.

wouldn't go again, but here I am in Arizona and I despise it. I have a boy friend up north and we are extra close. I told my parents if they don't send me home to stay with a friend (relatives are out, they are like prison guards!) I will kill myself, but they don't believe me.

Abby, if I run away, will they lock me up? I would rather be in an orphanage than live like this. Can't somebody help me? When I see my boy friend I am going to get pregnant right away so they'll have to let me get married. Please don't tell me to listen to my parents. They hate me. And I hate them. I wish I was dead. Tell me what to do. I trust you.

TORN APART

DEAR TORN: You have a lot of bitterness and resentment to unload. Tell your parents you want to get your head together and would like to express your feelings to an objective, qualified third party. A psychiatrist or psychologist can help you and your parents develop a better relationship. Running away or getting pregnant will only make a bad situation worse. Talk to your parents today and make a deal! And let me hear from you again. I care.

DEAR ABBY: Something happened again last night which practically ruined my evening, and I'd like to know how to handle it if it should happen again, which I'm sure it will.

There is an extremely overbearing, obnoxious woman in town who insists that she is related to me, and every time she sees me, she greets me loudly with, "HELLO, COUSIN!"

In the first place, she is NOT my cousin. Is there some way I can get this loud-mouthed woman to quit calling me "Cousin" without coming right out and insulting her?

My first cousin, once removed, was briefly married to this woman's second cousin, twice removed.

NO COUSIN

DEAR COUSIN: People who insist on claiming you as a relative will do so, no matter how many times you "remove" them. There is nothing you can do about it, so grin and bear it.

DEAR ABBY: I can usually handle my own problems, but this requires advice that only you can give.

I am a single fellow and find myself very much attracted to Jane, and I think Jane is also attracted to me.

About a week ago Jane and her husband separated. I don't want to hurt my chances with this very special lady so here's where you come in. When would it be proper for me to ask Jane out?

WAITING WITH BAITED BREATH

DEAR WAITING: Wait a little longer. Couples usually separate in order to think things over. If your hunch is right and Jane is interested in starting up with you she'll get the message to you somehow.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

The Ohio House of Representatives adopted this week a measure aimed at clarifying ballot language of constitutional amendments. The measure calls for the creation of a five-member Ohio Ballot Board to prepare ballot language, explanations, and arguments concerning constitutional amendments proposed by the General Assembly.

Presently, the Secretary of State is required to either place the language or a condensed version of the language of the constitutional amendment on the ballot. It is then up to the legislature or Secretary of State to provide information to the voters explaining the issue.

The proposal adopted by the House this week establishes an Ohio Ballot Board composed of the Secretary of State and four bi-partisan members to prepare ballot language and explanations. Neither the full or condensed text of an issue need be included on the ballot.

A present requirement that ballot issues be advertised in a newspaper in each county a full five weeks prior to an election is reduced to three weeks. Under the new measure, the General Assembly would have to submit issues to the Secretary of State 90 days before an election. The Ballot Board would be required to prepare an issue and submit it to the Secretary of State 75 days before an election.

The Ohio Supreme Court would have original and exclusive jurisdiction over all cases challenging the propriety of an issue. The ballot language could be declared invalid if the court decides it could mislead, deceive, or defraud the voters.

The proposal now goes to the Senate for its consideration. Final legislative action is needed by February 21 if the Ballot Board proposal is to be placed before the voters in the May primary.

A new program is being conducted by the Ohio Department of Taxation to assist persons in completing their tax returns.

This year Ohio tax agents will be located in all major Internal Revenue Service offices throughout the state. As a result, taxpayers will now be able to go to one location and obtain assistance in preparing both their state and federal individual income tax returns.

Persons visiting the I.R.S. locations for assistance in completing their returns are reminded to bring both their state and federal pre-addressed forms as well as other pertinent information.

The Department of Taxation has completed mailing some four million tax forms and instruction booklets.

Those who did not receive the form by mail can obtain a form at any state tax department assistance office and at various banks and savings and loan associations throughout the state.

The Emergency Energy Board would be granted power to adopt plans for emergency action in a broad range of areas, but most of the powers would be used only if the energy crisis grows worse.

As a check on the board, the bill allows the General Assembly to amend or reject formal regulations of the energy board within 15 days. Citizens will have the right to appeal actions of the energy administrator to a three-member Energy Appeals Board.

Under the legislation, the board would be given power to set regulations in such areas as:

Adjusting motor vehicle speed limits.

Prohibiting or limiting the sale of gasoline or other vehicle fuels on the basis of location or time.

Limiting the amount of vehicle fuel that may be sold at each retail sale.

Build Body Ecology

The natural state for your body is good health. Poor health is unnatural. How does chiropractic fit into this? It's really surprisingly simple. Your spine is made up of 24 moveable segments (vertebrae), which enclose the spinal cord. Leading out from between the vertebrae are pairs of nerves that, directly or indirectly, serve various body organs. If one or more of the vertebrae is somehow shifted out of its normal position (it can be through a fall on the ski slope, or something as commonplace as a bump or sudden twist), there can easily be interference with nerve functions—and the organ or organs they serve. Until the offending vertebrae are restored to their normal position, natural good health may not occur. Chiropractic is not so much a way of directly treating health problems as it is a way of permitting the body to become healthy naturally. In a very real sense, chiropractic helps build body ecology.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

The Ohio House of Representatives adopted this week a measure aimed at clarifying ballot language of constitutional amendments. The measure calls for the creation of a five-member Ohio Ballot Board to prepare ballot language, explanations, and arguments concerning constitutional amendments proposed by the General Assembly.

Presently, the Secretary of State is required to either place the language or a condensed version of the language of the constitutional amendment on the ballot. It is then up to the legislature or Secretary of State to provide information to the voters explaining the issue.

The proposal adopted by the House this week establishes an Ohio Ballot Board composed of the Secretary of State and four bi-partisan members to prepare ballot language and explanations. Neither the full or condensed text of an issue need be included on the ballot.

A present requirement that ballot issues be advertised in a newspaper in each county a full five weeks prior to an election is reduced to three weeks. Under the new measure, the General Assembly would have to submit issues to the Secretary of State 90 days before an election. The Ballot Board would be required to prepare an issue and submit it to the Secretary of State 75 days before an election.

The Ohio Supreme Court would have original and exclusive jurisdiction over all cases challenging the propriety of an issue. The ballot language could be declared invalid if the court decides it could mislead, deceive, or defraud the voters.

The proposal now goes to the Senate for its consideration. Final legislative action is needed by February 21 if the Ballot Board proposal is to be placed before the voters in the May primary.

A new program is being conducted by the Ohio Department of Taxation to assist persons in completing their tax returns.

Tiger Defense Kills London Offense, 58-41

After trailing for two periods, Circleville came up with a terrific defensive effort in the second half, limiting London to 12 points, and rolled to a 58-41 win over the visiting Red Raiders Saturday night.

Nicklaus Sweeps To Victory In Hawaiian Open Golf

HONOLULU (AP) — Hale Irwin voiced the sentiments of most of golf's touring pros.

"Why," inquired Irwin, "doesn't he stay home? Or if he has to come, why doesn't he bring the kids?"

But Jack Nicklaus didn't stay home. He made a sudden decision to come to these tropic islands to play in the $220,000 Hawaiian Open.

And he didn't bring the kids.

"When I bring the kids, I'm on vacation," he said. "I'm not on vacation. I came to play golf."

And, to the surprise of practically no one, the game's Golden Bear played it well enough to win the $44,000 first prize, playing just as well as he had to to stand off a couple of mild challenges down the stretch Sunday.

He had a two-under-par 70 in the final round on the sunsplashed, 7,154 yard Waialae Country Club course and won by a comfortable three strokes at 271, 17 under par.

Rookie Eddie Pearce, 21, the youngest man on the pro tour, once got to within two strokes of the front-running Nicklaus in the stretch. But Jack responded with a couple of quick birdies that ruined Pearce's dream of an upset.

He settled back into second with a 66—274 total.

J.C. Snead was next with 68— 275, while Irwin and Dwight Nevil tied at 276. Irwin had a final round 66 in the near perfect playing conditions, bright sunshine, 80-degree temperatures and just the hint of a breeze. Nevil had a four-underpar 68.

Nicklaus matched the course record set in 1966 by Hawaiian Ted Makalena, who won this event in 1966 and died two years later in a surfing accident.

Nicklaus could have broken the record with a 2-foot birdie putt on the final hole. He missed.

"I'd never try not to make a putt," he said, "but Makalena was a hero in these islands. I'm glad his record is still on the books."

"I was very pleased with our showing against a strong Newark team and a fair Miami Trace squad," Circleville coach Brent Bell stated.

"Brett Christy, Dave Bond, John McCoy, Dave Defrank and John Payne have shown a lot of improvement and are getting stronger each time out.

"We have beaten every team in the South Central Ohio League this season

Circleville pulled down 30 rebounds with Hoskins, Kline and Reed hitting the boards. London grabbed 28 missed shots with Russell leading the way.

The Tigers committed 13 turnovers in the contest and the Red Raiders misplayed the ball 18 times.

Russell was the big man for London in the first period as he rammed home four buckets to keep the Red Raiders in the lead. Kline and Martin tallied all the points for the Tigers in the canto.

All the Tigers got into the scoring attack in the second frame and they cut the Red Raiders lead to three points at halftime.

But, from there on it was the Tigers game as they grabbed a 34-31 edge at the 4:25 mark in the third frame and never trailed again in the contest.

The Red and Black cagers were stickier than a hot pecan roll in the last

The Tigers began to kill the clock late in the fourth canto which caused the London cagers to commit fouls in an effort to gain possession of the ball but the Tigers converted the charity tosses to increase the margin of victory.

Michigan State Topples Purdue

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer

Hard work and team effort apparently is the answer to success and that's the song winning coaches are singing in the tight Big Ten basketball race.

With Michigan State toppling Purdue 76-74 last Saturday, no less than four teams find themselves thinking "title."

Michigan State, which has lost two conference games by a total of four points, got a gamewinning basket from Mike Robinson with four seconds to play to hand the Boilermakers their first loss against six victories.

Michigan, also 6-1, climbed into a first place tie with Purdue by humbling Illinois 101-77, and defending champion Indiana, 5-1, slugged Iowa 85-50 to remain a half game off the pace. Michigan State sits fourth with a 6-2 record.

Elsewhere Saturday, Ohio State was upset by Northwestern 68-61 and Minnesota edged Wisconsin 64-63 in overtime.

Only five conference games are scheduled this week but Big Ten teams get a chance to enhance their prestige against a couple of the nation's top teams.

Ohio State is at Minnesota Monday night while Notre Dame, ranked No. 3, invades Michigan State. On Tuesday night, Wisconsin goes up against fifth-ranked Marquette.

That's the extent of the action until Saturday when Illinois goes to Indiana, Iowa plays at Wisconsin, Ohio State at Michigan and Minnesota at Purdue.

Although Indiana and Purdue were expected to contend for the conference title, Michigan and Michigan State were given only an outside chance at best.

"We're really happy to be in first place," said Michigan Coach Johnny Orr after the Wolverines handed Illinois their worst beating at the Assembly Hall.

"But we know we have a tough road yet to go," he added. "This team already has done things that nobody would anticipate we'd do."

Michigan State held a 74-70 lead over Purdue before John Garrett tied it with a basket and a pair of free throws. The pace then slackened with Spartan Coach Gus Ganakas taking two time outs in the final minute.

"At first we wanted to run our scramble-stall offense until there were 20 seconds left," said Ganakas. "Then I told them to stick with the scramble-stall and I thought perhaps we could get Mike free on the base-line with a screen.

"But they played good, tight defense and it didn't quite work out the way I planned. I never said Mike was to take the shot, the players do. That's just the kind of team we have," added Ganakas.

Coach Bobby Knight of Indiana's defending champions also sang the praises of his club after the Hoosiers devastated Iowa by scoring 28 straight points—the last 18 of the first half the first 10 of the second half to hike a 28-20 lead into a 56-20 advantage.

When Byron Nelson won 11 straight victories on the 1945 PGA tour, he earned a total of $34,849.

Jerry Micksy, of Richeyville, Pa., and Rick Sherkel, of Madera, Pa., will co-captain Penn State's 1974 baseball team.

Tiger Defense Kills London Offense, 58-41

After trailing for two periods, Circleville came up with a terrific defensive effort in the second half, limiting London to 12 points, and rolled to a 58-41 win over the visiting Red Raiders Saturday night.

The Tigers trailed at the end of the first period, 18-13, and were on the short end of a 29-26 count at halftime. But, Circleville came out roaring in the third quarter to put 15 points on the board while holding London to six points in the canto and grabbed a 41-35 lead at the buzzer.

The fourth period turned out to be more of the same. The sticky Tiger defense held the Red Raiders to six more points in the quarter while the Tigers tallied 17 to wrap things up in fine fashion.

Kris Kline paced the Tigers with 19 points, Robin Martin hit for 17, Perry Hoskins added nine, Harold Reed netted seven, Doug Radabaugh had four and George Moore added two.

London's 6-foot-4 center, Cecil Russell, had 13 markers, Jim Bacon and John Phillips each added eight, Jim Sheveley had six, Paul Chadwell four while Kevin Weese and Jim Simpson tallied one apiece.

Circleville hit on 21 of 50 from the floor for 42 per cent and converted 16 of 26 from the charity stripe for 62 per cent.

London netted 15 of 45 from the field for 33 per cent and 11 of 17 from the free throw line for 65 per cent.

two periods and thwarted any offense that the Red Raiders tried to generate. They continually shut off the Red Raiders as they built up their own margin on the scoreboard.

The Tigers began to kill the clock late in the fourth canto which caused the London cagers to commit fouls in an effort to gain possession of the ball but the Tigers converted the charity tosses to increase the margin of victory.

Circleville is now 10-5 for the season and will be at Miami Trace Friday and at home with Hillsboro Saturday night.

Circleville Matmen Capture Tri Meet

IN TROUBLE—A Newark grappler is in trouble as Circleville's heavyweight Dave Bond applies some pressure. Dave was a double winner for the Tigers as they copped first place in a tri meet with Newark and Miami Trace Saturday.

Nicklaus Sweeps To Victory In Hawaiian Open Golf

HONOLULU (AP) — Hale Irwin voiced the sentiments of most of golf's touring pros.

"Why," inquired Irwin, "doesn't he stay home? Or if he has to come, why doesn't he bring the kids?"

But Jack Nicklaus didn't stay home. He made a sudden decision to come to these tropic islands to play in the $220,000 Hawaiian Open.

And he didn't bring the kids. "When I bring the kids, I'm on vacation," he said. "I'm not on vacation. I came to play golf."

And, to the surprise of practically no one, the game's Golden Bear played it well enough to win the $44,000 first prize, playing just as well as he had to to stand off a couple of mild challenges down the stretch Sunday.

He had a two-under-par 70 in the final round on the sunsplashed, 7,154 yard Waialae Country Club course and won by a comfortable three strokes at 271, 17 under par.

Rookie Eddie Pearce, 21, the youngest man on the pro tour, once got to within two strokes of the front-running Nicklaus in the stretch. But Jack responded with a couple of quick birdies that ruined Pearce's dream of an upset.

He settled back into second with a 66—274 total.

J.C. Snead was next with 68—275, while Irwin and Dwight Nevil tied at 276. Irwin had a final round 66 in the near perfect playing conditions, bright sunshine, 80-degree temperatures and just the hint of a breeze. Nevil had a four-under-par 68.

Nicklaus matched the course record set in 1966 by Hawaiian Ted Makalena, who won this event in 1966 and died two years later in a surfing accident.

Nicklaus could have broken the record with a 20-foot birdie putt on the final hole. He missed.

"I'd never try not to make a putt," he said, "but Makalena was a hero in these islands. I'm glad his record is still on the books."

Tiger Reserves Finish 3rd In Mat Tourney

Circleville's reserve wrestling team placed third in a 14-team tournament Saturday at Groveport.

Worthington captured the event with 108 points, Upper Arlington placed second with 94 and Circleville had 56½ for third.

Other teams finishing in order were: Whetstone, West, Westerville, Groveport, Whitehall, Bexley, Marietta, Newark, Marysville, Teays Valley and Lancaster.

Placing for Circleville were: Tom Marshall, second, 105-pound; Bruce Brudzinski, second, 167-pound; Brian Augustine, third, 98-pound; Pat McNaughton, third, 145-pound; Tom Strawser, third, 155-pound; Jan Wise, fourth, 185-pound; and Scott Bowman, fourth, heavyweight.

Little Tigers Gain 3rd Place In Mat Tourney

Circleville's seventh and eighth grade wrestling team placed third in an eight-team tournament Saturday at Upper Arlington.

Worthington won the tourney with 126½ points, Licking Heights was second with 88½ and Circleville garnered 86 points to take third.

Eric Berlin captured the 101-pound class for the Tigers. Second spots for Circleville went to: John Frericks, 93-pound; Joe Leahy, 122-pound; and Tim Housh, 170-pound.

Keith Connell was third in the 108-pound class. Fourth place finishers for the Tigers were: Rodney Cook, 81-pound; John Harr, 86-pound; Matt Stemm, 129-pound; and Brett Sherman, 135-pound.

TV Grapplers Place 4th

Teays Valley's wrestling team placed fourth in a 12-team tournament Saturday at Hamilton Twp.

Hamilton Twp. took top honors with 76½ points, Mifflin had 64½, Marysville 60, Teays Valley 55½, New Albany 53½, Grandview 50, Lakewood 49½, Wilmington 43½, Columbus South 41, North Union 36, Buckeye Valley 20 and Watkins Memorial 7.

The Vikings captured two first spots with Ted Ross taking the 148-pound title with one pin and three decisions and Bill Hurley winning the 158-pound class with two pins and two decisions.

Mike Wilson, 178-pound, and Bill Toole, heavyweight, gained second spots. Bill Breen placed fourth in the 170-pound division.

Teays Valley will be at Groveport in a dual meet 6 p.m. Tuesday and will host Jonathan Alder 1 p.m. Saturday.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): If dubious about accepting a certain suggestion, it will probably be better to reject. But do weigh it sufficiently so as not to miss any angles.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): An "on — and — off" day. You may feel unusually vigorous during some hours, lethargic in others. In any event, be certain of the feasibility of ideas you submit or accept.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Avoid a tendency toward indifference. Direct your energies along smarter, better coordinated lines, and you will see possibilities in areas you have been viewing as barren.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Good ideas and efficient methods will be important factors in this day's success picture. You can now make advances in hitherto slow-moving projects.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): A few minutes of thought before plunging into any activity can save you from making costly errors. Channel efforts discerningly; use skills and talents adroitly.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): You may have to revise some views, revamp a pre-planned program if you are to attain the goals you desire. But do this efficiently and good results are certain.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): As with Virgo, you, too, may have to make some changes if certain projects aren't going as you'd like. A new method or new twist to an old one could do the trick.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Alertness, reading between the lines will keep you on the ball now. Be consistent in endeavors; ready to explore all the possibilities of new devices, methods.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Concentrated effort toward attaining worthwhile goals should net fine results now. An unusual idea could prove profitable if cleverly carried out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Don't count on — or spend — anticipated profits before you acquire them. Key interests may need a bit of extra push. But don't go to extremes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Especially favored now: Engineering, organizational work, craftsmanship and writing. Individually, you can rack up a good score.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Perseverance, despite possible obstacles, will bring handsome rewards soon. Your creative abilities should be highly stimulated.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a keen intellect and a delightful sense of humor; are a persuasive innovator once you learn to avoid extremes and build optimism so that it may back up your tremendous, but sometimes uncertain, power of self-reliance and possibilities for brilliance. You can be the quiet force behind a bustling business, yet are extremely artistic in your outside interests. Birthdate of: Adlai Stevenson, American statesman.

Ramirez Wins Tournament

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Young Raul Ramirez of Mexico had his biggest single payday as he won the first annual Dayton Pro Tennis Classic Sunday, collecting $5,000.

But the tennis player taking the most money from the tournament was 55-year-old court hustler, Bobby Riggs, who breezed into town Saturday night, played an exhibition against the Cincinnati Reds Pete Rose and picked up $7,500.

Crusaders Top Whalers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"This was one game we needed," Cleveland Coach Bill Needham said following the Crusaders' 3-1 victory over the New England Whalers Sunday.

So did the other contenders in the World Hockey Association's East Division.

Coupled with Toronto's 5-4 triumph over Minnesota and Quebec's 5-3 decision over Jersey, the East was left with four teams just seven points apart. New England leads Toronto by four points, Quebec by five and Cleveland by seven.

Gears Beat Muskegon

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Jim Johnston scored twice Sunday to lead the Saginaw Gears past the league-leading Muskegon Mohawks, 5-4, in International Hockey League action.

Dave Cressman, Dennis Derosiers and Ray Beaudoin also tallied for the Gears, while Daryl Nibbs led Muskegon with two goals.

Burt Scott and Jim Randolph also scored for Muskegon.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Grit your teeth, gang. The television, stage, film and music awards season is approaching. But things will be different this year. There'll be two music awards shows, not one.

No groaning, now. One of the shows is the recording industry's 16th annual Grammy Awards ceremonies, to be broadcast from Hollywood on March 2 by the CBS Television network.

It'll be preceded Feb. 19 by a newcomer to the awards business, ABC-TV's "The American Music Awards" show, also from Hollywood.

If this trend persists, the Republic is in danger of getting an awards show honoring the best awards show. But I digress.

The Grammy Awards are voted on by 3,500 eligible members of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences. ABC's awards have been voted on by at least 20,000 members of the general public.

"I have no quarrel with the validity of awards given by an industry to itself, the Grammys, the Oscars, the Emmies," says Dick Clark, executive producer of ABC's show. "It all makes sense."

"People should pat their colleagues on the back," he observed. But he pondered aloud why the public shouldn't get in on the act?

"I wonder," he said, "what would happen if you were to take the obvious leaders in their field and say, 'Here, folks, what do you think? The hell with the experts.' And that's what we've done."

The folks in this case were 43,200 souls from all walks of life, from age 8 on up, who last December were mailed music ballots by Marketing Evaluation, Inc., a New York-based public survey firm.

They were asked to vote on pop, soul and country music nominees on a list based on those considered 1973's music heavies by three major music magazines — Billboard, Cash Box and Record World — and by a broadcasting trade magazine.

They could write in their favorites — Johnny Cash drew the most write-ins, but not enough to make the finals. The ballots had to be returned by Jan. 15, the cutoff date.

Clark says more than 20,000 ballots were in by then. They've since been tabulated by an independent auditor and now are under lock and key, awaiting the big night and cries of, "The envelope, please."

There'll be 45 finalists, 3 in each of 15 categories.

More Coal From Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Coal production in Kentucky continues to rise while the fatality rate of miners in relation to the amount of coal mined remains at last year's record low.

The Mines and Minerals Department reported coal output would reach more than the 120 million tons mined in 1973. Twenty-one persons have been killed in mining mishaps during 1973.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Grit your teeth, gang. The television, stage, film and music awards season is approaching. But things will be different this year. There'll be two music awards shows, not one.

No groaning, now. One of the shows is the recording industry's 16th annual Grammy Awards ceremonies, to be broadcast from Hollywood on March 2 by the CBS Television network.

It'll be preceded Feb. 19 by a newcomer to the awards business, ABC-TV's "The American Music Awards" show, also from Hollywood.

If this trend persists, the Republic is in danger of getting an awards show honoring the best awards show. But I digress.

The Grammy Awards are voted on by 3,500 eligible members of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences. ABC's awards have been voted on by at least 20,000 members of the general public.

"I have no quarrel with the validity of awards given by an industry to itself, the Grammys, the Oscars, the Emmies," says Dick Clark, executive producer of ABC's show. "It all makes sense. 'People should put their colleagues on the back,' he observed. But he pondered aloud why the public shouldn't get in on the act? "I wonder," he said, "what would happen if you were to take the obvious leaders in their field and say, 'Here, folks, what do you think? The hell with the experts.' And that's what we've done."

The folks in this case were 43,200 souls from all walks of life, from age 8 on up, who last December were mailed music ballots by Marketing Evaluation, Inc., a New York-based public survey firm.

They were asked to vote on pop, soul and country music nominees on a list based on those considered 1973's music heavies by three major music magazines — Billboard, Cash Box and Record World — and by a broadcasting trade magazine.

They could write in their favorites — Johnny Cash drew the most write-ins, but not enough to make the finals. The ballots had to be returned by Jan. 15, the cutoff date.

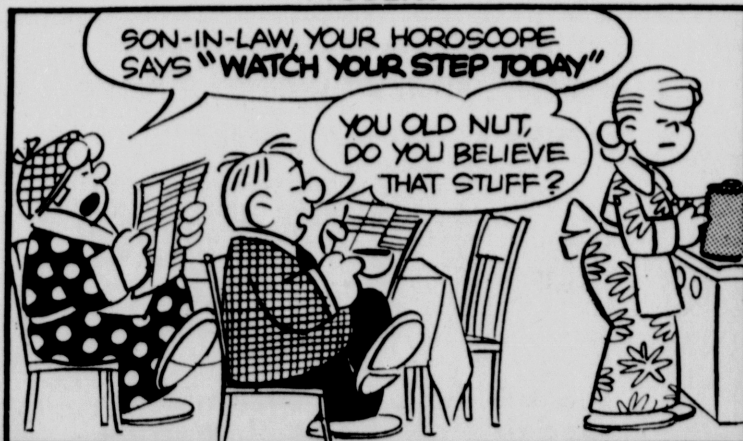

Clark says more than 20,000 ballots were in by then. They've since been tabulated by an independent auditor and now are under lock and key, awaiting the big night and cries of, "The envelope, please." There'll be 45 finalists, 3 in each of 15 categories.

More Coal From Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Coal production in Kentucky continues to rise while the fatality rate of miners in relation to the amount of coal mined remains at last year's record low.

The Mines and Minerals Department reported coal output would reach more than the 120 million tons mined in 1973. Twenty-one persons have been killed in mining mishaps during 1973.

Claims Doctors Overdose Children

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — A University of Illinois psychologist says doctors should prescribe a fraction of the usual dose of a drug in treating hyperactive children.

Dr. Robert L. Sprague, director of the Children's Research Center of the university, said in a recent interview that the smaller dose helps the child learn better and sit still longer.

And the child psychologist said the larger doses concerned him because their effect on the child's nervous system was not known.

Sprague said hyperactive children cannot sit still and have difficulty learning. They often cannot get along with schoolmates and create problems in the classroom, he added.

He estimated that 2.5 per cent of school-aged children are hyperactive but acknowledged that others estimate the figure at three to five per cent.

The psychologist said doctors assume what is called minimal brain damage — so slight it cannot be measured — causes the condition. And he said there is an inherited tendency to develop hyperactivity, which appears in difficult or demanding situations, such as the classroom.

The primary drugs used with hyperactives are known generically as methylphenidate. About 75 per cent of hyperactive children given this drug improve, and 25 per cent of these improve dramatically, Sprague said.

The average dose is 30 milligrams a day, with some physicians prescribing as little as 10 or as much as 50 milligrams, Sprague said.

He maintains that dosage should be calculated in relation to the child's weight and said he and his colleagues have found that a daily dosage of only 0.3 milligrams per kilogram — 2.2 pounds — of body weight is most effective.

For a child weighing 70 pounds, that would mean a daily dose of only 9.5 milligrams.

Studies at the center have shown that hyperactive children given the smaller dose were able to remember more of the material they studied and did not move around as much while studying.

When the dosage was increased to 0.7 milligrams per kilogram, about 22 milligrams for a 70-pound child, learning ability dropped slightly and wiggling while studying increased greatly.

Winter returned to Ohio during the night with cloudy skies, chilly temperatures and scattered light, blowing snow. Readings this morning generally were in the teens or the 20s.

The colder weather was to lock in today and tonight under mostly cloudy skies. Light flurries were to end across the state today as highs reach the 20s or 30s. Clearing skies tonight are expected to let the mercury fall to between five and 15 degrees north to the teens and 20s over the rest of the state.

A winter storm moving in from the west will bring snow to the state Tuesday. Temperatures were to climb into the 20s and 30s. This will be followed by several days of unsettled weather as the state gets either snow or rain into the weekend.
